

How to Fix/Amending Past Years Poor Tax Refunds

PDF-Free Report -How to amend/Fix past poor ATO tax refunds

Amending past poor refunds - for Police officers 2019

This guide explains to Police Officers about how they can go about amending the past 2 years* ATO tax refunds which were brought about by insufficient understanding of what police officers can legitimately claim back on their tax return.

* time limit rules apply

Fixing Past Poor refunds

For more information about our SmartFix tax amendments go to www.policetax.com.au

Accountants Plus Group Pty Ltd

ABOUT SMART FIX TAX AMENDMENTS

Our Smart fix tax amendment service is widely used by clients to legitimately get back what you may be entitled to from the ATO.

Many taxpayers with specific occupations may have missed out on quite legitimate tax deductions over the past 2 years which they have either missed or are unaware of. If you have completed your tax yourself or had a tax accountant that doesn't specialise in your occupation it's understandable that claims may have been omitted. These tax returns can be easily amended and the additional tax refund can be paid into your nominated bank account.

The law sets time limits for amending your tax assessment. For individuals the time limit is generally two years, from the day after you are given notice of assessment for the year in question (generally taken to be the date on the notice.)

What claims normally get forgotten about:

1. Set rate per km car deductions going to training or place of education
2. Home laundry and dry-cleaning
3. Clothing specifically requested by your employer
4. Association/Union fees
5. Home office costs
6. Mobile used for work
7. Internet costs for work or study
8. Other incidentals costs
9. Donation/legacy payments
10. Tax agent fees from year prior

Time limits

Broadly, under self-assessment, the time limit for changing most tax information is two years from the day after you are given a notice of assessment, or a statement is lodged.

This is known as your 'period of review'.

Keep all your records and information relevant to your correction for at least five years. If your period of review is extended you need to keep the records until the end of the extension. If you are in a dispute with us about a liability and the dispute is not finalised by the end of five years, you need to keep the records at least until it is finalised.

You can submit more than one amendment request within a period of review.

The time limit gives you certainty about your tax affairs because it means the ATO can't amend your tax assessment after the time limit has passed.

If you want to change a tax return after the time limit has passed you can't request an amendment, but you may be able to lodge an objection. While the time limit for lodging amendments and objections is the same, you can request an extension of time to lodge an objection in some circumstances.

Decisions you can object to and time limits

By law you can object to tax assessments and most other decisions the ATO make, within appropriate time limits.

Time limits for lodging objections vary from 60 days the time starts from the date the assessment or notice of decision was given to you. This is generally taken to be the date our assessment, notice, ruling, demand, decision or other correspondence was delivered to you or your representative in the usual course of the post.

If the final lodgment day falls on a non-business day, your objection can be lodged on the next business day.

Extension of time to object

If you're outside the time limit, you can ask for an extension of time by including a written request with your objection.

How to get started amending past years poor refund results.

Follow the steps outlined below:

1. Go to our web site and register your interest to amend.
2. Tell us how years you want amended
3. Make an appointment (online booking system) for a person or via Skype video tax with one of our trained tax accountants.
4. Alternatively, you can amend tax returns online with us (we will always telephone you to discuss the results before we get approval to lodge)
5. Make sure you have some documentary evidence to support your amendment
6. Sit back and relax while we do the amending and lodgments for you
7. The additional refund is generally back within 14 days* subject to ATO processing